Aims & Scope

Journal of Gastronomy and Tourism (GAT) is a multidisciplinary journal inviting research contributions that imaginatively and comprehensively investigate dimensions of food and eating in relation to travel and tourism.

Food has always been an important component of the tourist experience. Gastronomic tourism is becoming a real player in the tourism market, and food and wine related services and events attract greater numbers of tourists each year. Food links into local and regional economies in multifaceted value chains, which includes agriculture, fisheries, food producers, a variety of media, entertainment, learning, research and numerous service providers.

Journal of Gastronomy and Tourism invites research contributions of a theoretical as well as empirical and practical nature without specific disciplinary focus. The aim is to provide a source for cutting-edge thinking and evidence in an emerging field, and to be a forum for continuous development and discussion of matters interlinking gastronomy and tourism.

The journal will feature a Special Issue with selected papers from the

that takes place in October 2017 in Krems, Austria. GAT invites participants to submit full-papers of their conference contributions. The special issue will be co-edited by the organisers of the conference.

Submission of Manuscripts: All documents, including a cover letter, containing the name, address, phone/fax numbers, and email of the author responsible for correspondence, are to be submitted to <http://journals.sfu.ca/gat> where authors will be required to complete a registration form. For more information on the submission process, visit the publisher's website (below).
